

40-Mile Front Blazing Third Straight Day

Israeli Plane Downed Over Heights

By United Press International

An Israeli war plane went down in flames over the Golan Heights today in the first Israeli air loss since the October war.

The plane loss occurred as artillery and tank fire blazed along the 40-mile Golan front for the third straight day on the 9,000-foot slopes at the northern end of the truce line, and the 28th straight day of clashes on the Israeli-Syrian front.

Israel announced it has captured its first Syrian prisoner in the daily tank and artillery battles with the Syrians on the Heights.

A Syrian communique said Syrian defenses shot down the Israeli plane over the Mt. Hermon region where fighting has been going on for two days.

The Israeli military command said the crew bailed out because of a fire aboard and "were seen to have parachuted into Lebanese territory."

The only operational warplane used by Israel with more than one crew member is the two-seater American-made Phantom jet.

The Israeli announcement said the craft "was flying in the vicinity of Mt. Hermon when it was abandoned by its crew as the result of a fire which broke out, apparently resulting from a technical mishap."

Damascus radio interrupted a news broadcast to broadcast a new military communique saying that a formation of Israeli warplanes tried to penetrate Syrian airspace in the Mount Hermon region.

"Our air defense system intercepted the enemy formation and shot down one of its planes which was seen crashing in fire in south Lebanon," the Syrian communique said.

The communique said fighting between Syrian and Israeli forces in the same region entered its second consecutive day.

The Israeli command said it used air power Saturday to drive Syrian infiltration units out of Israeli-held territory on the slopes of the craggy, basalt peak, which forms part of the border with Lebanon and Syria. But it denied Damascus assertions of further air strikes Sunday.

Israel last acknowledged losing a plane on Nov. 9, when the command said an unidentified aircraft was downed by an Egyptian ground-to-air missile over the Suez canal front.

Since then, two unmanned reconnaissance drones "fell" or were shot down by missiles over the canal, the army said.

Earlier, Israel said its troops captured a Syrian army commando belonging to an infiltration unit attempting to gain higher ground on the mountain.

Each side accused the other of escalating the fighting on its 28th consecutive day in the Golan Heights.

Israel's announcement on the Syrian prisoner said he was captured a day ago by troops who were sweeping the slopes of Mt. Hermon in search of infiltrators who had crossed the cease-fire line during the weekend. Another Syrian soldier was spotted, a spokesman said, but managed to escape.

The two nations have yet to exchange prisoners taken in the October war. Israel has said there must be an exchange before it will agree to disengaging along the cease-fire line.

Even as the front line exploded with gunfire, Prime Minister Golda Meir's cabinet was reported considering resigning and then forming a reshuffled government in order to collectively accept responsibility for the nation's military unpreparedness for the war.

"The enemy is mounting greater pressures and trying to intimidate and terrorize us," Syrian President Hafez Assad told a political rally. The Israelis, he said, escalated the conflict over the weekend by using warplanes and infantry in addition to artillery and tanks.

Damascus radio said in a postmidnight broadcast that artillery and tank duels were continuing into the early morning hours.

Israel accused the Syrians of widening the fighting by, for the first time since it started, opening fire on its fortresses atop Mt. Hermon, the nearly 10,000-foot peak overlooking the battlefield, on Sunday.

Syria said Israeli warplanes punched back, striking its infantry positions on the mountain but causing no casualties. The Israeli military command denied it, saying the only air strikes it had flown against Syria came on Saturday.

Golda Asks More Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel has asked for more U.S. Shrike air-to-ground missiles for use against Syrian air defenses, Pentagon sources report.

This request by Prime Minister Golda Meir is viewed by some military analysts as underscoring the seriousness of the situation developing along the Golan Heights front.

But civilian officials indicate they doubt Israel will escalate the present relatively low level of shooting unless the Syrians launch a major attack.

These officials tend to view limited military action by Damascus as an effort to improve Syria's position for diplomatic bargaining to come. But they do not rule out the possibility of a major new Syrian offensive.

They note that the Syrians now lack the advantage of surprise that enabled their tank forces to drive back the outnumbered Israelis at the start of the October war.

When the Syrians struck last fall, the Israeli air force took severe losses from Soviet-made missiles and guns until it was able to neutralize those batteries with the help of Shrikes and other air-to-ground missiles rushed from the United States.

The high explosive Shrike is designed to knock out the electronic "eyes" guiding anti-aircraft weapons by homing in on their radar beams.

The Pentagon said last week that "we are now close to the $1.5-billion figure in equipment approved for supply" to Israel, with about two-thirds of it already delivered.

In authorizing $2.2 billion in military aid for Israel late last year, Congress said that President Nixon could go beyond $1.5 billion only if he makes a special determination that it is in the U.S. national interest to do so.

Meanwhile, defense officials say the newly announced agreement with Saudi Arabia calling for close economic and other cooperation will not be at the expense of the U.S. relationship with Israel.

These officials describe King Faisal of Saudi Arabia as a principal moderating influence on other Arab countries. They also credit Saudi Arabia with influencing other oil-producing countries in the Arab bloc to lift the embargo on the United States.

The new agreement with Saudi Arabia also speaks of cooperation in supplying that country's "requirements for defense purposes."

In earlier deals, Saudi Arabia has bought F3 international fighters and a variety of other military equipment from the United States.

County to Operate City 'Storefront'

$79,094 to Fight Drugs

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — Ulster County's methadone maintenance program, under the auspices of the County Drug Commission, has been funded for another year, to the tune of $79,094. Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savano announced today.

The grant, which covers the state's fiscal year of April 1, 1974 to March 31, 1975, is provided by the State Drug Abuse Control Commission for the treatment of opiate (heroin) addicts.

It was also announced that the County Drug Commission will operate the former Renaissance Storefront at 609-611 Broadway as an ex-addict treatment center. Approximately ten persons who have been detoxified on methadone will be offered psychological therapy and vocational programs.

The county's methadone maintenance program is headquartered at the former nurse's residence at Kingston Hospital. Savano noted that the $79,094 grant from the state represents only part of the total funds expected from various grant sources this year to assist the County Drug Commission in its continuing program of drug abuse education, prevention and treatment.

According to Michael J. Wood, administrative director of the County Drug Commission, the actual amount requested for drug programs under the county commission for the next state fiscal year is in excess of $625,000. Of that amount, about 80 per cent comes from the state through various grant programs, about 10 per cent from the county and the rest through a combination of federal aid ("when we get it," says Wood), Medicaid reimbursements and some private methadone will be offered patients in methadone maintenance.

The methadone program offers methadone maintenance and a variety of psychological and rehabilitation services to county residents who have been addicted to opiates for at least two years.

Wood said that during the 1973 p.m. six days a week this summer as a walk-in storefront and program treated 158 persons of referral service. It will be which 18 had successfully completed the program during the year and were now known group of volunteers known as the "task force" which has been active in public information in its numerous appearances in the county's schools and at other forums.

In taking over the city's drug operation—actually, the Kingston Narcotics Guidance Council voted to disband on March 10, Wood said that volunteers pretty good for any drug program. The point that should be made is that the remaining county's operation of that people in the program are on their way to become drug free."

Referring to the storefront grant announced today contains operation on Broadway, Woods said the Commission anticipates a "satellite" program in the Ellenville area, operating from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Canoeists Rescued

KINGSTON —

Three canoeists from Dutchess County were rescued from the cold and choppy waters of the Hudson River Sunday after their craft capsized in midstream.

The three were identified as James Richardson, 17, of Poughkeepsie; Emory Roger, 24, of Rhinecliff and George Toben, 17, of Poughkeepsie. All three were released from Benedictine Hospital after treatment for exposure and shock.

According to Rhinebeck State Police, the three had launched their canoe from Rhinecliff shortly before 2 p.m. It drew water a short time later and sank.

The incident was witnessed by several unidentified persons who were fishing north of Kingston Point. They commandeered a power boat and picked up the struggling canoeists. The trio was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance Service.

Nixon Signs Minimum Wage Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today signed a bill raising the minimum wage for nearly 57 million Americans to $2 an hour for the first time.

In approving legislation almost identical to a measure he vetoed only seven months ago, Nixon brought under the minimum wage umbrella for the first time domestic service employees and many workers in chain department stores.

The signing was a tacit admission the administration could not have sustained a veto, since approval of the measure by Congress was massive.

The signing was less than a ceremony. No congressional leaders were invited, and the only ones present for the historic presidential signature were Labor Secretary Peter Brennan and Nixon's assistant, Kenneth Cole.

The new bill, passed by Congress March 21, raises the minimum wage from $1.60 to $2 an hour. It also increases by seven million — to 56.5 million Americans — the number of workers covered by minimum wage laws.

Nixon, back from a busy weekend, including a trip to Paris and an overnight stay at Camp David, also was expected to turn his attention to areas ravaged by tornadoes last week and to another Watergate decision.

Tuesday, Nixon must respond to the House Judiciary Committee request for documents and tapes of conversations in its investigation of the alleged cover-up of the Watergate break-in. There's a threat of subpoena if he does not voluntarily surrender the material.

Martin Blames Problems on Addicts

By WADE BURKHART

WILLIAMS LAKE — Ulster County Sheriff William B. Martin said Saturday night that the troubles in the Ulster County Jail, and in local jails across the state, all began last September with the phasing out of the so-called "Rockefeller Program" for dealing with drug addicts.

The sheriff said the end of the state program, instituted by former Governor Nelson A.

Rockefeller by which criminals who said they were drug addicts were taken to central state facilities for treatment regardless of the crime they had committed, meant that the addicts were now in local jails. Martin said he now had 18 addicts in the Ulster County Jail, and indicated they had been nothing but trouble to him, and had been responsible for many of the recently-reported problems at the jail.

Martin spoke at the annual installation dinner-dance of the Marlborough Republican Club, held at Williams Lake Hotel. As bad as things have been at the jail recently, according to Martin, they could have been worse. "In Rockland County they destroyed the jail," he said.

"Has anybody given us credit for preventing another Attica in the fine jail we've got?" asked Martin. Martin said things were going to get worse for law enforcement officials. He said New York State was going to go "100 per cent for legalized gambling," and the people who would be running the legal gambling operation had already been thrown out of Nevada for not abiding by the state's "rules and regulations" about gambling.

He said murders and crimes of all other sorts would increase, and called legalized gambling the thing I fear the most."

Martin's problems at the jail in recent weeks have included the finding of drugs in the jail and treatment of prisoners who had used them, a series of mattress fires which caused extensive damage to the jail, and a belatedly-reported escape by two young prisoners who are still at large.

The sheriff related all the problems, either directly or indirectly, to the drug addicts in the jail. He said the drug addicts had been responsible for bringing the drugs into the jail and the mattress fires were set by the addicts after the drugs were taken away.

He said the escape had left "a sore spot in my heart." (The escape was not reported to the other agencies within the state-mandated time limit: Martin said he thought the report had been sent out on time.) "I must have been betrayed somewhere along the line," he said.

He also said it was important to have a sheriff who had spent his whole working life in law enforcement, as he had, since the sheriff was the "last resort" in defense. He said "when the enemy moves in and takes over" only the sheriff would command the necessary respect to assemble a defense. Martin said he was not predicting an imminent invasion, but that it was something to be prepared for.

Enumerating reforms he had instituted, Martin said, "The residents of Ulster County can be justly proud of the Sheriff's Department." However, he said it was difficult to keep good men, since the salaries were so low, and that he had lost 64 men since his department moved into the new jail.

Installed as officers in the Marlborough Republican Club were Arnold L. Fedde, president; Mrs. Violet Russell, vice president; Mrs. Milford VanDemark, recording secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Smith, corresponding secretary; Donald LePera, treasurer; and Mrs. Lester Judd, publicity.

Master of Ceremonies was Ulster County Legislator S. Robert Kelder, and his wife and Mrs. Henry Werber were co-chairmen of the event.

KINGSTON—The Ulster County Sheriff's Employees Association stands 100 per cent behind Sheriff (William B.) Martin both as a man and also our employer," Deputy Howard Olsen, vice president of the association, has stated in a press release.

According to Olsen, the association "constitutes 100 per cent of all Sheriff's employees." "Public record has shown that Sheriff Martin's terms in office have proven him to be the most capable and competent Sheriff available and competent to that Ulster County has ever had," Olsen continued, adding that the deputies feel recent incidents at the jail " . . . were definitely ballooned out of proportion."

"Life in the jail for the deputies employed and inmates therein can at times be a situation which is both tense and precarious. The deputies accept this life 24 hours a day 365 days a year for a low salary, yet are readily

They as a group stated retained by Sheriff Martin to that they are proud to work for this man, and hope to continue their employment with Sheriff Martin in the coming years," Olsen stated in the release.

Olsen further said that attorneys Alex Nirenberg and Barry Lippman have been retained as general counsel to represent all Sheriff's employees for impending contract negotiations with the County. Nirenberg has also been

Hoppers Flooded With Proposals

Albany Turns to Utility Costs

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—With the snow and gas lines melting away, the most popular topic for legislative bill-drafters apparently has shifted from solving motorists' gasoline woes to curbing utility costs.

The hoppers have been flooded with proposals, ranging from a variety of methods for restructuring the Public Service Commission to auditing utilities.

Lawmakers from both parties confirm a steady flow of letters from constituents protesting the recent record rate hike requests by Consolidated Edison and Niagara Mohawk in Metropolitan New York and upstate.

Republican leaders, who control the fate of legislation, say the prospects for passage of something to alleviate what they term a public outcry due to the rising rates is good. But no one seems to know what will be done.

Skeptical Democrats aren't as optimistic.

The PSC, which must approve all rate hikes, has come under increasing criticism because of its alleged "rubber stamp" role in approving rate hike requests.

Bills seeking enlargement of the panel from five to 11 members, placement of a consumer advocate on the PSC and election rather than appointment of commissioners have been proposed.

Other bills have centered their reforms on the utilities themselves, while still others want a review of the rate structure.

Sen. Walter Langley, R-Albany, chairman of the Senate Corporations, Authorities and Public Utilities Committee, said he didn't think changing the PSC was the answer.

"It's such a complicated field all we are doing is getting information for future action," he said.

Langley said "an incestuous relationship" had developed between the utilities and the PSC. He said he wasn't sure which side of the "unties" reform measures appeared likely of passage.

Francis J. Boland, R-Binghamton, head of the corresponding Assembly committee, said he didn't think changing the PSC was the answer.

"I don't think we're going to set any fires in the sky with the legislation we've got before us now," he said. "The basic fact is we've got to find out what happens on the utility level."

Sen. Mary Anne Krupak, D-Canajoharie, said she hasn't seen signs that any of the measures have been getting serious consideration.

"There just hasn't been any movement of this type of legislation in our committees," she said.

"My educated guess is that the Republican leadership will avoid PSC revision. They don't want to take a chance it will hurt them in the November election," she said. "I think they're wrong though, actually it would probably help them."

Sen. Emanuel R. Gold, D-Lake Placid, said he doesn't expect any reforms either. He said PSC Chairman Joseph Swidler's expected resignation this spring would give those opposed to a change an out.

"The leadership will take the position that we should wait and see if things will change under a new chairman," he said.

Patty's Parents to Mexico For Much-Needed Respite

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The parents of Patricia Hearst, angry, frustrated and exhausted after more than two months of agonized waiting for their daughter's release, left Sunday for a rest in Mexico.

"They just had to get away," family friend Ira Walsh told newsmen at the Hillsborough home of Randolph and Catherine Hearst.

He said "absolutely" that the Hearsts had not left to meet secretly with their daughter.

Two of Patricia's sisters, Anne and Gina, and Gina's husband, Jay Bosworth, were to join them for a stay of up to 10 days, the family spokesman said.

He would not reveal the Hearst's destination, but did say that Hearst was prepared to return immediately if there are any new developments.

Patricia, 20, granddaughter of newspaper giant William Randolph Hearst, was dragged from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4. In a tape recording received Wednesday of last week, she renounced her former way of life, termed her father a liar, and said she had decided to join her kidnappers — the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA) — "and fight beside them."

In an interview Saturday in the dining room of his home, Hearst said he thought his daughter had been brainwashed.

"I think she was — not that they had her in a tiger cage or anything like that — but I think that after 60 days you can change people. I think she believes some of the things on the tape and not others. The girl I knew 60 days before would never have made the statements she made," he said.

Hearst now terms the SLA kidnappers as "cruel people."

"I guessed wrong on the SLA all along, and I thought they were going to keep their word and didn't," he said. "I do believe she's unharmed, but to put out a message one day saying they're going to release her and then a day later put out one saying she's going to stay with them, this is just plain cruelty," Hearst said.

"I think they're just cruel people, and I think they fundamentally hate this society so much that they think anything's fair."

The day before the bizarre taped message that Patricia was joining her kidnappers, the SLA in another communication said they would reveal the time and place of her release within 72 hours.

Hearst said it was "idiotic" tape and analyze it, you realize would be withdrawn from for anyone to think Patricia she was terrorized," Hearst said.

He reaffirmed that if Patricia she was, but I think it's idiotic, by May 3, the $4 million quite specific about this,"

When you go through that first additional for food for the poor Hearst said.

Indian Leader Appeals to Kidnapers

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—

American Indian Movement (AIM) leader Dennis Banks

issued an appeal early today through United Press International to the Symbionese Hearst.

Banks, who is standing trial in St. Paul in connection with last year's occupation of her parents. Banks said, possibly in preparation for a meeting with her various organizations across the nation to join in the effort.

The AIM leader said he has talked with Miss Hearst's father, Randolph A. Hearst several times since last Wednesday.

Banks said Hearst asked for AIM assistance in an appeal to the SLA for a "three-day pass" so his daughter could talk with him.

In a tape recorded message released earlier by the SLA leader said he was attempting to bring to St. Paul this week. In a plea directed to the SLA, union president W. A. "Tony" Boyle may hinge this week on the testimony of a man who says he heard Boyle order the assassination of Joseph Yablonski six months before it occurred.

The trial entered its third week today.

The expected witness was William J. Turnblazer, once one of Boyle's closest comrades and president of UMW District 19.

Turnblazer, 52, of Middlesboro, Ky., has told the FBI he was at a meeting in June, 1969, at which Boyle said Yablonski, a 1969 reform candidate for the union presidency, should be killed.

Boyle, 72 and in poor health, is accused by the state of initiating the plot to kill Yablonski. The UMW reformer, his wife and daughter were shot to death in Clarksville, Pa., on Dec. 31, 1969.

The assassinations came about three weeks after Boyle defeated Yablonski in a bitter election campaign.

The state alleged that Turnblazer and Albert Pass, 54, also from Middlesboro, met with

Boyle at UMW headquarters in Washington, D.C., in June, 1969,

and Boyle said Yablonski "ought to be killed" or "done away with."

The indictment said Pass, then secretary-treasurer of District 19, said District 19 would "take care of the assignment," and that Boyle later allocated $20,000 in union funds to pay for the murders.

Pass was convicted of murder last year, but has refused to talk to the FBI or other authorities.

Turnblazer, however, agreed to testify against Boyle and was allowed to plead guilty to federal conspiracy charges in connection with the slayings.

The state has not charged Turnblazer with murder.

Freed Financier Old Flamboyant Self

LONDON (UPI)—There

were girls at his arm, a blue cap perched on his head and a broad grin showing through his neatly trimmed beard.

Bernard "Bernie" Cornfeld

wisecracked about his weight ("so many people sent me care packages") and even about the $1.67 million dollars bail he had just posted ("I'm not broke").

The 46-year-old financier was released from jail in Switzerland on Saturday after spending 11 months behind bars and posting the highest bond in that country's history. Then he flew to London.

Cornfeld had been detained for possible fraud, mismanagement and forgery involving the collapse of the Geneva-based mutual fund company he founded, International Overseas Services (IOS).

He met newsmen at his plush townhouse and was his old flamboyant self.

"I expect to leave for the States within a week," he said,

"and I'll be doing everything I can to see to it that various agencies get all the help they need" in investigating a pending case there against the man who ousted him as IOS chief,

Robert Vesco.

U.S. prosecutors are attempting to extradite Vesco from Costa Rica to face charges of siphoning off $224 million from IOS funds.

"The reason the bail was so high was in deference to my wealth, I guess," Cornfeld said. "They've all been 'I am less rich after paying it dropped. Only mismanagement out. A good portion was loaned to me by more than 100 people. But I'm not broke."

"I shared my cell with an interesting fellow who was a burglar," he said. "I guess you could say he was in the wholesale watch business."

Charges against him in Switzerland? "They've all been dropped. Only mismanagement remains to be dealt with."

QUEEN LIMPS IN — With at least one of her boilers back in action, as demonstrated by the smoke pouring from her funnel, but still under tow by deep sea tugs (C) the Queen Elizabeth II approaches Bermuda on Sunday. The Queen had been dead in the water since April 1 after an oil leak put her boilers out of commission some 270 miles from Bermuda, forcing evacuation of more than 1600 pleasure-cruise passengers. Officials hope to have her repaired in time for the first of the 1974 season's trans Atlantic crossings. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 8, 1974

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—A confidential audit of Vice President Gerald Ford's taxes proves that not all politicians are tax cheats.
Both the Internal Revenue Service and the Joint Congressional Taxation Committee, which investigated President Nixon's taxes, also audited Ford's returns before he was confirmed as Vice President.
The President is now stuck with a bill for $476,431 in back taxes after the IRS disallowed several dubious deductions. The Vice President, in contrast, merely had to make a few minor adjustments.

The confidential Ford audit, which we have obtained, portrays an inherently honest man who believes he should bear his fair share of the tax burden.

Ford's returns show a total income of $224,364.10 for the first three years of the 1970s. He paid $75,111.44, or about a third of his income, in federal taxes. An additional $6,261.42 was paid to Michigan in state taxes.

Over the same three-year period, President Nixon reported a total income of $794,104.85 yet paid only $5,969.02 in federal taxes. This was less than one per cent of his income. He paid absolutely nothing in state taxes, despite the fact that he maintains residences in both California and Florida.

Tax agents carefully investigated two accounts which Ford used to pay political bills. Declares the confidential audit: "Numerous items were considered to be taxable before receiving Mr. Ford's diary and the fact that we were unable to trace trips to certain locations at certain times of the year . . . After receiving the diaries . . . all of the plane travel tickets and cash advances were accepted as legitimate political expenditures."

This compares to the $27,015 that the joint committee claimed President Nixon owes the government for travel expenses he couldn't justify.
The IRS disallowed an $871.44 deduction that Ford took for special clothing he had purchased for the 1972 Republican convention. The joint committee had found this to be a legitimate deduction. But the IRS ruled the suits were not "unique or distinctive" in character and, therefore, leveled "tax deficiency" of $435.77 against Ford.

Although he was advised he could challenge this, he insisted upon giving the government the benefit of any doubt and ordered his accountant to write the IRS a check.
The tax agents also found that Ford had "overlooked" $1,167 which was billed to his political account but actually had been spent for a family trip to their condominium in the Vail, Colo., ski country. Ford thought he had reimbursed the political account, but immediately ordered the necessary payment when he learned otherwise.

"The analysis of the diaries resulted in several questions . . ." states the audit. "In all cases, the items were found to be correct." The Vice President, in other words, kept scrupulously honest tax records.
The famous date of July 25, 1969, which is at the heart of President Nixon's improper deduction for papers donated to the National Archives, also turned up in the investigation of Ford's taxes.
The tax sleuths checked the depreciation that Ford had claimed on his Vail, Colo., condominium. They "felt that an issue should be raised as to the use of 200 per cent depreciation . . . The cutoff date for use of 200 per cent depreciation for this type of property was 7-25-69."

"The records presented to us," declares the document, "substantiated the fact that the purchase contract was signed and an initial deposit was made on 6-23-69 (which) supported the use of both 200 per cent declining balance depreciation and additional first year depreciation." In short, the transaction was entirely proper.
Like Nixon, the Vice President also had a problem with "missing" documents. Some deposit slips for one of Ford's accounts couldn't be found.
The IRS "requested these and received some of them, but were told that the balance of the missing deposit slips could not be found. However, with the use of the diary and Mr. Ford's and Mr. Buchen's (a former Ford law partner) assistance, most of the unidentified deposits were explained."

The Ford tax summary shows he contributed a total of $6,342.22 to charity. All the deductions were allowed after careful scrutiny.
A thorough investigation of his checking accounts, particularly checks made out to cash, turned up "nothing significant." The confidential audit mentions that Ford was "surprised himself to know that he can go through a week spending $5 or less because of numerous meetings and lunches paid by others, particularly during the campaign season."

Asked about his bills at the House restaurant for his own lunch, Ford told the investigators that "the cost of his usual lunch of cottage cheese and unsweetened grapefruit juice is very nominal."
White House figures show President Nixon's net worth more than tripled from $307,141 in 1969 to $988,522 in 1973. Over the same time span, Ford's worth jumped from $130,526 to $179,751 — about a 35 per cent increase.
In 1970, Ford had an income of $91,322.11. He forked over $35,121.09 in federal taxes and $1,724.99 in state taxes. Compared with the President, Ford surrendered nearly 50 times more in tax payments on an income of two-thirds less.

A year later, his income totalled $68,114.58. He paid federal taxes of $20,390.53 and state taxes of $2,273.71. Although his income was only about one-fourth the President's, Ford paid about 25 times more taxes.
Again in 1972, he had a $64,927.41 income and paid $19,599.82 federal taxes and $2,262.72 state taxes. He made about a fourth as much as Nixon but paid approximately five times more taxes.
In sum, the Vice President's tax returns reveal him as an honest man, who has never connived to seek private gain from his public position. The story is a good tonic for a scandal-weary public.

Train on Track

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The deep split between Russell Train and the White House over watering down the Clean Air Act reached a hysterical climax in the White House when conservative Republican Sen. William Scott of Virginia demanded that Train "quit."

Scott was rebuked by other Republican members of Congress present, but he was not far from representing the true sentiment in the Oval Office. If President Nixon were stronger politically, he might well have fired Train outright.
The scene of Scott's outburst was the breakfast table at the White House mess. Train, energy czar William Simon, assorted White House aides and key Republican members of Congress were thrashing over the environmental dispute resulting from the energy crisis which has split the administration. Suddenly, Scott stood up. "Anyone who will not support the administration on this ought to quit and I mean you," he told Train. Then, recalled one witness, he added: "They can find some ambassadorship for you, maybe Russia or China."

Train, impassive, replied quietly: "Bill, you're way out of line." After an embarrassed silence, several Republicans leapt to the defense of the administration's embattled environmentalist. Conservative Rep. Ancher Nelsen of Minnesota complimented Train on the way he was doing his job.

Also in Train's corner was Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, an administration stalwart. New York's conservative Republican Sen. James Buckley (a strong conservationist) backed Train, as did Rep. John Heinz of Pennsylvania, a liberal Republican.

Simon, supported by President Nixon's Domestic Council, explained that Mr. Nixon's proposed amendments to the Clean Air Act would only delay, not wipe out, air quality improvements in the present law. This was essential, Simon said, to allow oil-fired electric utilities to convert back to coal.
In the final compromise between Train and the Simon-White House position, four of the proposed amendments were dropped; on the other two, the White House told Train and Simon to take their conflicting positions to Congress with the White House formally neutral. Train's refusal to accept the rape of the Clean Air Act was strongly backed by Democratic Sens. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Edmund Muskie of Maine.

French foreign minister Michel Jobert's campaign against the U.S. reached a high point in Riyadh, capital of oil-rich Saudi Arabia, just before he went to Syria in late January to lobby against a quick end of the anti-U.S. oil boycott.
Jobert, given high marks by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger as one of the most subtle of the world's diplomats, carried that subtly a step too far in a long talk with austere King Faisal on the weekend of Jan. 25.
France, Jobert told the King, would boycott the Washington conference of energy-consuming nations, scheduled for Feb. 11, "out of deference to Arab sensitivities" — and particularly out of deference to King Faisal.
The King was annoyed. The mid-February Washington conference was the brainchild of Kissinger. Kissinger's frequent visits to King Faisal since the Yom Kippur war have reinforced traditional ties between Washington and Riyadh, stretched to the breaking point by earlier U.S. backing of Israel in the Arab-Israeli conflict.
So, when Jobert dropped his subtle hint about snubbing Kissinger, Faisal registered disapproval. He told Jobert he wanted the Washington conference to succeed and that harmonious relations between oil-producing and oil-consuming nations were in the highest interest of his country.

Jobert's sly approach to Faisal was really intended to give the French a pro-Arab cover for boycotting Kissinger's February conference, a boycott highly attractive to the French government anyway. But when Faisal reacted harshly, the French felt compelled to come to Washington (where they alone refused to go along with the final communiqué).

Although Sen. James Buckley of New York notified the President the evening before his public call for resignation, no one at the White House bothered to check with Buckley until 11 the next morning, 30 minutes before Buckley's press conference.

Then, when chief of staff Alexander Haig called Buckley, the Senator was out of his office. Strangely, the White House failed to insist that Buckley's staff find him to take Haig's call. Buckley was reached by Haig only after his call for Mr. Nixon's resignation.

A footnote: Buckley telephoned a few intimate supporters before he went public. At least one such supporter, retired chemical tycoon John Mulcahy, was by no means pleased.

Personal Glossary of Sports

BERRY'S WORLD

"Well, I guess we can add 'amnesty' to the subjects of 'politics and religion' not to be discussed at parties, eh?"

Sports in this country fall into three categories: spectator, participant and spectator-participant. I entertain a wry and often critical affection for all of them. Here, for your edification and mine, is a glossary of my feelings about the more popular sports.

AUTOMOBILE RACING: The ultimate test of the internal combustion engine. A hundred thousand people bring lunches and pay to see one or more drivers broiled to death in flaming wreckage.

TENNIS: The fat man's shortcut to a myocardial infarction. The game is swift and anticipatory in character. The notion is to hit a furry ball over a net within baselines. It is the only game in which, if someone points at you and says, "Love," you're a loser.

GOLF: Old man's orgy. The players use 14 poorly designed weapons to hit a small, white ball into a hole faraway. It is the only game in which the player must keep his head down and is not permitted to see what he is doing. Scotland's revenge on the British Empire.

BASEBALL: A slow, solemn effort by 18 players to keep each other from crossing a plate which isn't a plate. Professionally, it is played by semi-millionaires who hate it.

HOCKEY: Well-padded madmen steer a round puck on ice toward a goal too small, guarded by a goalie too large. Excitement occurs only when two players flog each other insensibly with sticks.

SOCCER: A minor sport using a round, inflated ball which is caromed off toe and head toward a goal. The game is a legacy of a major sport in Europe, with variants called rugby and football, in which thousands of spectators wait patiently until the game is over before rushing on the field to dismember the umpire.

BOXING: Two athletes in a 24-foot enclosure armed with leather mittens. The object is to hit one's adversary more frequently. The result is judged by three well-dressed cowards who are paid for watching from a safe distance, some of whom own Seeing-Eye dogs.

BOWLING: An effort to tumble 10 triangulated wooden pins with a big, hard ball thrown down something called an alley. The game is to beer drinkers what a beauty parlor is to a mother — three hours out of the house. Sadly, most bowlers cannot score their weight.

JAI-LAI: Spanish handball. The only game in which the animals can read the odds on the tote board. In America, a lightning-fast sport confined mostly to Florida. Tourists find it difficult to get a winning bet on 28 players who take a bath together.

HORSE RACING: An assortment of wellbred quadrupeds who run at top speed because they are afraid of a pygmy on their backs armed with a bat. The imbecile mentality of the horse never permits him to understand that the reward for winning is the same as losing — a bag of oats.

HURLING: Legalized murder confined to Ireland. Players on opposing teams are armed with heavy sticks and try to hit a soft, leather sphere into a goal net. The Irish spurn helmets and bring the stick down smartly on each other's heads. Most games are played as benefit to pay hospital bills for last week's players.

DOG RACING: Fleet greyhounds chase an electrified rabbit. People bet which dog will come closest to not catching the rabbit. Outdoor bingo.

WRESTLING: Two fat men taking turns lying on top of each other. This sport arouses base instincts in women. A game for muscled dimwits who flunk courses in acting.

FOOTBALL: In its professional aspect, 11 wealthy young men trying to move a leather ellipsoid 10 yards in four attempts. In school, 11 poor young men doing the same thing, hoping to become rich. Both are watched by an average of 60,000 team managers, each of whom calls the right play immediately after the quarterback calls the wrong one.

BASKETBALL: A high-scoring game involving two hoops and 10 hyperthyroid hooplies. It has two main elements: dribbling and fouls. The only sport which can be won or lost by less than one-half of one per cent of the total score.

HUNTING: The armed invading the home of the unarmed with murderous intent.

FISHING: Patient people in boats trying to outwit piscatorial creatures who were born with an atavistic suspicion of free meals.

FIGURE SKATING: Delicate designs on ice. Also, a student's letter to dad explaining how he went broke before the next remittance was due.

I would have included lacrosse, but I thought it was a dressing for a cut or abrasion. Me, I love sports . . .

Girl Found Dead in Saugerties

SAUGERTIES — State Police and Ulster County Coroner Richard Buono are investigating the death of 17-year-old Mary Catherine Aldrich of 30 Cherry Lane, Saugerties, who apparently succumbed to carbon monoxide poisoning early today.

The teenager, a student at Saugerties High School, was found slumped on the seat of the family car, which was parked inside the garage at 30 Cherry Lane. The car's engine, according to Saugerties Town Police, was running when the girl was discovered about 2 a.m.

The girl was pronounced dead at the scene and the body was taken to the Ulster County Morgue by Saugerties Ambulance Service. An autopsy was to be performed today.

community of 1,600 Wednesday.

Residents of this small Ohio River town paused for the task of piecing together shattered lives Sunday to pay tribute to the dead.

About 1,800 persons came to the Meade County High School gymnasium for an interdenominational funeral service for the 30 persons killed when a tornado slashed through the community of 1,600 Wednesday. Sunday was officially declared a day of mourning and a flag flew at half staff beside the filling station which is serving as a makeshift city hall.

Trucks hauled debris through the town all morning and workmen bulldozed the rubble that remains over half the community. But all work in the town halted destroyed by the tornado stopped briefly at 2 p.m.

Throughout the morning and early afternoon friends and relatives had filed over the canvas covered gymnasium floor past the 14 coffins that still remained at the school Sunday. One coffin held a mother and child.

Flowers decked each coffin. "It was our feeling that it would not be good for the community to have separate funerals for everybody," said the Rev. Kenneth Lile of the Brandenburg United Methodist Church. "Everybody would want to go to all of them and it could go on for days."

"It would have prolonged the thing and it would be agonizing," said Meade County Judge James Greer.

Pope Calls on Young To Bear New Witness

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI said in his Palm Sunday sermon the young generation should not follow "the easy ways of intellectual, spiritual and social indifference" but rather should bear "new and victorious witness to Christ."

"Witness becomes easier and strong if it springs from union, from a shared commitment and collective loyalty," the Pontiff said during Mass in St. Peter's Basilica. "We must not invariably prefer the easy ways of intellectual, spiritual and social indifference.

"Individualism, isolation and indifference to good causes are not in conformity with the Christian way, especially concerning witness to Christ the Lord."

Pope Paul said "bearing new and victorious witness to Christ, in our time, is the task of the young generation, the task of the children, the adolescent, the youth (ex-claimer). Today it is your task if tomorrow it is to be the task of the adults."

Conservatives, Area Chiefs Join Feraca Support List

KINGSTON — Both the Ulster County Conservative Party and the Ulster County Fire Chief's Association announced their support today for Kingston police detective and school board member Joseph Feraca.

Following an appeal by the Ulster County NAACP, New York's Commissioner of Education ruled that Feraca cannot legally hold both positions. He was ordered to either resign from the police force, or resign as a member of the Board of Education.

Feraca has appealed that ruling, but no decision has yet been announced.

The Ulster County Conservative Party, through Chairman William Jackson said, "Detective Feraca's opponents, who are striving to have him removed from his elective position as school board member, have grabbed a very flimsy straw—a mere technicality—to disguise their prejudice and discrimination against a very fine member of our society."

"There are individuals whose primary interests would be in conflict with the goals of education. But how could anyone interpret a dedication to preserving and enforcing our laws as being in conflict with education? Indeed, the opposite is true."

In a letter sent to Feraca (dated April 1), Albert Morelli, president of the Ulster County Fire Chief's Association, said, "Our association feels that you can fully perform the duties of a policeman and still be able to serve your community as a school board member without a conflict of interest."

Morelli noted that a resolution of support for Feraca was passed unanimously at the Association's March 14 meeting.

Investigating Burglaries

KINGSTON — Detectives of the Kingston Police Department are investigating three Sunday burglaries, including one that occurred at the studios of radio station WGHQ at 82 John Street.

Detectives said entry was gained through a second story rear window. The intruder apparently used a ladder to reach a shed roof just below the window.

According to a spokesman for WGHQ, seven tape recorders—including one valued at $380—were stolen. In addition, a $200 clock-radio and other broadcasting equipment was stolen from the station's newsroom.

Attempts were also made to break into other locked offices in the studio complex at WGHQ. A burglary was also reported at the Judy Ann Snack Bar on the Plaza Road, where $100 in cash was taken from a cash register. Entry was gained by breaking a window on the west side of the building.

Detectives also said $12 in cash was reported stolen from the John Street Liquor Store sometime Sunday night. The front door was found pried open by a uniformed officer on patrol.

County Welfare Share

Ulster County's share of the current distribution of funds to social service districts in the state is $718,452. The monies represent approximately 90 per cent of the federal and state share of anticipated welfare expenditures for March according to announcement made today by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt.

Creator of Smokey The Bear Dies of Stroke

MIAMI (UPI) — Albert Staehle, 74, creator of Smokey the Bear and other widely known animal characters, died in a Miami Hospital Friday of a stroke.

Staehle, a German-born immigrant, created Smokey in 1945 on commission from the U.S. Department of Interior which was seeking a mascot for its forest fire prevention campaign.

Staehle also created the flopped cocker spaniel, Butch, which decorated many covers of the former Saturday Evening Post magazine, and the swan which is the signature illustration of a brand name soap.

Boss Should Specify His Secretary's Duties

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The other day you published a letter from a secretary who professed to like her job and her boss, but she complained about being sent on non-clerical errands, such as picking up other employees or shopping for the boss, too often. This wasn't part of the job, she said, and she resented doing it.

And yet it would seem to me that if the boss sends her on these errands, and she does them on company time, then they are, indeed, a part of the job and she does not have a legitimate complaint. I could see her gripe if she were expected to do all these things on her own time, but this apparently wasn't the case. The problem is simply that she thinks she's being paid for her typing, and the boss obviously thinks she's being paid for her time. I tend to agree with the boss. So long as he is footing the bill, what does it matter whether the secretary is taking dictation or doing the boss' legwork?

MS. JONES

DEAR MS. J.: When one advertises for a typist, if "legwork" is part of the job, the applicants should be so advised. An employer does not buy "time" — he buys

"talent, muscle, or specialized skill." A woman hired to do secretarial work shouldn't be expected to sit with the kiddies any more than a man hired to sell real estate should be expected to wax the floors.

DEAR ABBY: I saw you on a talk show recently, and you were asked: "At what age do you think children should be told the facts of life?" You replied, "When they're old enough to ask, they're old enough to know."

I agree with you. I'm with Planned Parenthood, and this morning we heard from a group of angry mothers in one school district who are fuming about our week-long educational programs for 7th and 8th graders, so we've arranged to get the parents together so we can talk about it. By the time we're through, those parents will be saying: "We wish we had this when we were kids." I know it will happen. It always does.

We have a slogan, "All obstacles can be turned into opportunities." It's true. Hang in there, Abby!

LYN IN YAKIMA, WASH.

DEAR LYN: Education is the answer to V.D., illegitimacy and irresponsible sex. Count me as another who wishes they had sex education in the schools when I was a kid. What people DON'T know, CAN hurt them.

Safety-Top Locks Are 'Strong' Medicine

BY HELOISE

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise: I'm writing in regard to the new safety tops for prescription containers, and various safety tops given over-the-counter too.

For the elderly, it can be a very trying task to be able to remove it quickly.

My sweet mother, 83 years old, has had eyesight. To make it easier for her, I line up the top lift (or tab) of the prescription container with the mouth of the container at the indentation ridge. I use bright red nail polish, painting a line across the top lid and continue the line right down to the bottom of the container. This saves countless minutes for my mother.

Jean Collins

Your idea is absolutely great, Jean. I ask my druggist now not to put my prescriptions in a lock-type container. (My youngest is 23)

Heloise

DREAM ALONG!

Dear Heloise:

With food prices so high, and going higher, all of us wish for a free grocery shopping spree.

Some nights I can't get to sleep, so I start thinking of what I would put in the cart, if I won a spree.

I'd start with the fruit and vegetable section and continue on down the aisles of my favorite supermarket.

The trouble is, I usually fall asleep between the lobsters and steaks and never have been able to remember how many lobsters or steaks I put in my cart.

Mrs. D.C.S.

Dear Heloise: When preparing to hang pictures or plaques on the wall, draw an outline of each on a piece of paper and then cut out each separately, following the outline.

I place each one on the wall where I might want to hang the picture, using a small piece of transparent tape to hold it. This allows me to get some idea of how it will look.

I leave them on the wall for a day or two and if I'm not satisfied I can easily rearrange them.

Post: Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(C) 1974 The Family Post Institute, Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post: When writing a check for a doctor, should it be made out to John Smith, M.D., or just plain John Smith?

I would appreciate your answer to this question.

Bessie

Dear Bessie: When drawing a check that is a payment for professional services, it is correct to use John Smith, M.D. If you write a check for non-professional or personal obligations, you may omit the M.D.

Don't worry about it — I suspect that most doctors will happily accept your check with or without the M.D.!

Dear Mrs. Post: At Christmas, both my boss and I received booklets where you "Choose-Your-Gift" from one company. I sent my "thank-you" as soon as I received the booklet, but his wife chose to send her "thank-you" after the actual gift was received. What is proper in a case like this?

Marlene

Dear Marlene: Although I have never heard of a "Choose-Your-Gift" present, it seems much like the situation where one receives a gift certificate from a large department store. If you redeem the certificate promptly, it is nice to wait until you have chosen your gift and can say something about it in your thank-you note. If, on the other hand, you are going to take some time before choosing your present, then it would be better to write immediately.

Dear Mrs. Post: As a bank teller, I would like to voice a complaint about customers who get angry when you ask them for identification before cashing their check. They take it as a personal insult instead of realizing it is for their own protection. It amazes me how many people walk in without any identification whatsoever and expect the teller to cash checks and bonds, give out savings, distribute blank checks and not ask any questions. I have been shouted out and personally insulted for refusing to cash checks for lack of identification.

All things considered, however, I love my job and find the majority of people very nice.

Mrs. Dowling

Comment: This letter speaks for itself, and Mrs. Dowling sounds like the kind of teller I would like to have cashing my checks.

Dear Mrs. Post: The question of shaking hands is giving me some concern. I was brought up very strictly, and I doubt that my mother shook hands with anyone. I am a middle-aged woman, and I feel it is much more friendly to extend my hand, along with a smile. Occasionally, however, the person on the other end of the handshake looks surprised. I could use some guidelines as to shaking hands as woman to woman, woman to man, and man to man.

Alice Thompson

Dear Mrs. Thompson: It doesn't sound to me as though you need any guidelines at all. Nobody should ever criticize you for extending your hand along with a smile. Handshaking is a custom that varies a great deal from country to country and even from region to region in our own country.

and the old adage of "When in Rome do as the Romans do" applies here.

Generally, however, men shake hands when they are introduced to each other. Ladies may do so if they wish. When a man is introduced to a woman, she usually smiles, or nods, and says "How do you do?" Strictly speaking, it is her place to offer her hand or not as she chooses, but if he should extend his hand, she should certainly offer hers. Nothing could be ruder than to ignore any spontaneous friendliness. There is no fixed rule about shaking hands on parting. Here again local custom is your best guide.

Removing Old Wallcovering

Coming soon is that job of re-wallpapering the living room. To insure satisfactory results when applying a new wallcovering special attention should be given to the wall preparation, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist. Wall covering materials that must be removed are metallic gold or silver printed papers, foils, flock, and embossed papers. Also vinyl or vinyl coated papers should be removed.

Even if the old wallcovering is tight and secure, if a heavy material such as vinyl is to be applied, then the old material should be removed as the heavier vinyl may pull the weaker material from the wall. If the previous paper was hung with overlapping joints or seams it should also be removed. The raised joints will show through the new paper as vertical ridges. Vinyl wall coverings, especially those that are fabric backed, should be easily removed in whole strips by loosening the lower edges and gently pulling it intact from the wall.

To remove old wallpaper use one of these methods:

1. A commercially prepared wallpaper remover mixed with water should be applied hot with a clean paint roller. The mixture may be reheated during the course of the task.

2. A rented wallpaper steamer is very effective but may not always be available locally and is somewhat cumbersome for the inexperienced to use. Precaution should be taken not to damage plaster or drywall surfaces with excessive moisture.

3. Hot water and vinegar is suggested although it is not generally as effective as the commercial remover. It may be applied hot with a sponge or clean paint roller.

4. A fourth method is to scrape and dislodge the paper with a wide sturdy spatula.

This can only be done when the old paper is very dry and brittle and the paste has lost its adhesive qualities.

The old wall covering must be penetrated by moisture to soften the paste underneath. Painted and vinyl coated papers must have the surface broken to allow the water to penetrate. To break the surface use a very coarse grit sand paper, a rough brick, or purchase a roller-gadget with tiny perforating spikes.

To save yourself this tedious and time consuming task in the future, select a new strippable wallcovering that requires only a gentle tug to remove an entire strip.

Parent and Esposito Tie for Vezina Cup

By United Press International — The Flyers, Western Division champions, won their closing seconds from the end of the season, there is a tie for the coveted Vezina Trophy for goalies between Bernie Parent of the Philadelphia Flyers and Tony Esposito of the Chicago Black Hawks.

The goal was scored in Chicago by Marcel Dionne of the Detroit Red Wings, the final score in a 7-4 victory by the Black Hawks, and it deprived Esposito and teammate Mike Veisor of sole possession of the trophy. It left Esposito and Veisor with 164 goals allowed in the season, the same total as Parent.

The names of Parent and Esposito — but not Veisor — because he did not appear in the required 25 games — will be inscribed on the trophy and they will each receive the $1,500 cash award that goes with the victory.

Regular season puck chasing ended with a half-dozen games Sunday night that didn't affect the final standings in any way.

A stylized, hand-drawn map of New York State. The title 'MARINE MIDLAND' is prominently displayed in large, bold, serif capital letters across the lower-middle section. Above it, in smaller text, is 'A map of the united state of'. The map outlines the state's borders with Lake Ontario to the north and the Atlantic Ocean to the east. Major cities are labeled: Jamestown, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Binghamton, Elmira, Utica, Albany, and Troy. The map is decorated with various maritime and regional icons: sailing ships, steamships, a lighthouse, a windmill, and small figures of people. A compass rose is located in the upper right quadrant. The map is set against a background of a textured, mottled grey.

Prof. Schultz touted the often-discussed safety record of the nuclear industry. As a Jan. 1, 1974, he said, there were 108 nuclear plants in operation throughout the world (38 in the United States) that produced 788,000,000 megawatt hours of electricity. In addition, he said, there are 94 nuclear sea-going vessels; 200 small research reactors; and more than 2,000 reactors years of experience in the industry. "There has been no instance of radiation injury in a central plant in the western world," he said.

He spoke, also, of the safeguards built into each reactor. "The machine becomes self-limiting," he said, "there are automatic shutdowns to cover every contingency. There is no chance of a nuclear power plant. He also cited the now familiar statistics concerning radiation doses emitted from nuclear reactors. He said there is a far greater probability that a person will die of electrocution, cancer or automobile accident than from exposure to radiation emitted by a nuclear-fueled power plant.

Dr. Bond, in his address, dealt specifically with the effects of radiation, in varying degrees, on the human body. "Very large doses of radiation can be very harmful and from coal and oil generating lethal," said Dr. Bond, "but so plants than from nuclear reactors water in large doses. Bridge Authority... 'In Excellent Shape'

POUGHKEEPSIE condition as far as finances are concerned. Burns says the authority "in round figures" needs about $5 million in revenues to meet expenses. Last year it took in about $7 million. "If we lose 15 per cent it would work out to about a million dollars," he said. "We don't expect it to go that high."

Figures released by the authority show decreases in both traffic and revenue on all five bridges it operates. The report compares the first quarter of 1974 (January, February and March, inclusive) with the first quarter of 1973.

Overall traffic decreased by 12.26 per cent, off by 604,682 vehicles for a loss of $145,934 in revenues. The loss in revenue was 10 per cent, compared to the 12.26 per cent in traffic.

The Newburgh-Beacon Bridge, which lead the way during the years of monthly increases for the authority, is now leading the way in declines, showing a loss of 283,650 vehicles for the quarter and $58,456 in revenues.

The Mid-Hudson Bridge at Poughkeepsie showed a loss of 101,176 vehicles for the quarter and a loss of revenues of $27,989.

Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge showed a loss of 64,432 and a revenue loss of $14,685.

The Rip Van Winkle Bridge showed a loss of 66,206 vehicles and revenue losses of $20,586.

The Bear Mountain Bridge had a vehicle decline of 89,218, the biggest percentage decline at 16.1 and a revenue loss of $24,216, a whopping 17.6 per cent.

Overall, the authority had 4,329,106 crossings for the first quarter of 1974, compared to 4,993,788 for the first quarter of 1973.

Overall revenues were $1,313,067 compared to $1,459,001 for the first quarter of 1973.

Burns says that the authority has instituted some economy measures, "although we haven't dismissed anybody, we're not hiring anybody, either."

It will be "business as usual this summer," Burns indicated, with summer help being hired for painting, lawn cutting and other maintenance work. "We anticipate a normal program this summer," Burns said.

As to a fare increase, "A fare increase is not needed at this time," he stated.

Withdraw Proposal On Ending BOCES

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON A resolution calling for the phase out of BOCES programs throughout the state has been withdrawn by its sponsors, Ulster County District 6 Legislators Lewis C. Kirschner, Louis M. Klein and Glenn A. Debrosky.

Since filing the resolution a few days ago, the trio learned that similar legislation has been drawn by State Sen. Edwyn E. Mason (R-48th Dist.) and that other state legislators are "mindful" of the vast powers of BOCES and are also contemplating limiting such powers.

Inasmuch as action is being taken on the state level, Klein said the local resolution "is sort of moot."

Claiming that BOCES was originally intended only as a temporary agency, the three local legislators had planned to ask the state to phase the program out and incorporate similar vocational courses within the regular school district curriculums.

Kirschner said he personally "likes BOCES" but feels it has too much power. He suggested that the ongoing controversy concerning Ulster County BOCES's plans to lease a building in Bloomingville over the objections of the electorate, prompted the call for the phase out.

Meanwhile Dr. Jack Roosa, BOCES superintendent, explained that the state law creating BOCES on a temporary basis was amended at a later date making it permanent.

Sen. Mason's bill would require BOCES board members to be elected by the qualified voters of the district instead of by trustees of the school districts participating in the BOCES programs and would require qualified voters to adopt BOCES budgets in "the same manner that school district budget are adopted." At present BOCES budgets are adopted by BOCES boards without a public referendum.

Mason a former vocational education instructor, said that while he feels the BOCES program has many valuable features, "we do not have sufficient control of their programs and some BOCES administrators often act in an irresponsible and autocratic manner. They often forget they are public servants," he said.

Mason said he had contacted the Department of Education after receiving a number of Defense against inflation

The revolutionary bank thinks you should have a hedge against inflation. A guaranteed chance to let your money earn more money. That's why we are offering certificates of deposit that pay you a generous 7.25 percent per year compounded daily. That gives you an annual yield of 7.63 percent.

These certificates may be purchased at any Marine Midland banking office. You can purchase these certificates for as little as $1000. You are then free to choose your own maturity date, but your funds must remain on deposit 4 to 7 years. And even if current interest rates drop during that time, we pledge to continue paying that 7.25 percent interest. Compounded every day. For as long as you have chosen.

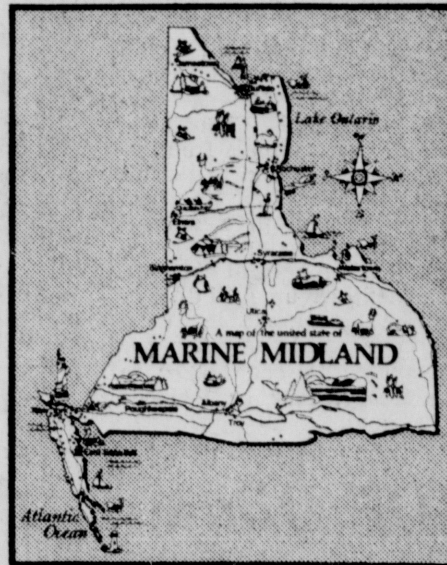

Interested citizens should note that Federal regulations prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity, unless 3 months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the lowest savings account rate. So, to avoid being shackled in time of dire emergency, we urge you to be discreet in depositing only those cash reserves which you can spare over an extended period of time.

In addition, citizens of the united state of Marine Midland, be assured that alternative savings plans are available, for large and small deposits. Long term and short term.

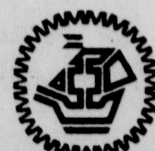

Resolve now to fight inflation with a 7.25 percent certificate yielding you a 7.63 percent return every year.

We provide guards for your future security.

Hearing Set On Animal Bill

ALBANY

The Assembly Standing Committee on Agriculture has scheduled a public hearing on an "Animal Bill of Rights" which has been introduced by Woodstock Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and is co-sponsored by committee chairman L. Richard Marshall (R-Elmira).

The hearing will take place in Hearing Room "C" to the Legislative Office Building in Albany on Thursday, April 11, at 10 a.m.

The proposal establishes standards of humane care, maintenance and protection for animals. Assemblyman Bell stated that evidence has come to his attention that many animals are being abused and improperly cared for and maintained in roadside zoos, puppy mills and other alleged shelters.

The Bell-Marshall bill would require that all animal rooms, cages, kennels, shipping containers and runs be of sufficient size to protect animals from inclement weather and to permit animals to stand up, lie down and turn around in a natural position. It further prohibits animals which are natural enemies, temperamentally unsuited or otherwise incompatible from being quartered together or near enough to each other to cause injury, fear or torment to an animal.

Greco has appointed the following committee chairmen: Jack Bartells, tickets; Charles Goertz, publicity; Mrs. Clifford Snyder, decorations; and Mrs. Henry Breitenbach, program. Paul Pavlovich will serve as master of ceremonies.

Several town, county, and state officials have been invited to join Saugerties Republicans on April 20, Greco said.

Spada Awarded Service Award From Agency

BOSTON, MASS. County Clerk Albert Spada has been presented an "Award for Meritorious Service" by the Department of State Passport Agency, according to announcement made this week by John J. Flynn Jr., agent-in-charge.

The award was presented by agency director, Miss Frances G. Knight, who established the award in 1971 for the purpose of giving official recognition to those county officers who have cooperated with the passport office in accepting passport applications from citizens of their area.

The clerk's acceptance of the responsibility and do this work for the people of their community through voluntary action—it is not a mandatory function of their office, Flynn said.

In a letter to Spada, Miss Knight said she is conferring the award on him and has left it undated for a good reason . . . "because the service you render is unending, it encompasses the past, the present and the future."

She said her office appreciates the service Spada has contributed in the performance of passport work and that his endeavors have been a major factor in making the passport office a successful public service.

Permanent position reporting directly to Director of Information Systems. Requires B.S. or B.A. degree and five plus years program engineering with financial and manufacturing systems. Must have COBOL background. Should have self-start capability with potential to move into supervisory position.

Accountants

Several positions are available in Cost, Credit, Billing and General Accounting. Applicants must have B.S. degree in accounting plus 1-3 years related work experience in a manufacturing environment.

Senior Buyers

Rapid expansion into new product lines will involve several multi-million dollar contracts in plastics materials, sophisticated electronics gear and conventional mechanical parts. Applicants must have a B.A. or B.S. degree plus experience in the high volume purchase of plastics or electronics materials or have an engineering degree with strong exposure to purchasing.

Industrial Engineers

Manufacturing Systems Analysis—Complete in-depth studies in plant layout, material handling capabilities, capital expenditures and establish production systems.

- Q.C. vendor contact and control.
- Cost justification for Q.C. capital expenditures.

Production Supervisors

We are looking for experienced and seasoned foremen that have assembly backgrounds in the electronic business machine field. We need supervisors that can get the job done in spite of little problems like parts shortages, union problems, large scale training and retraining, very rapid expansion, and constant start-up of new models and products. Experienced in handling employees and proven capability to get the work out will count more than college degrees.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

TRIP? (Q) I'm in love with a married man. He says he loves me too. I skip school just to be with him. He is 43 and I am 18. He says he will divorce his wife and marry me, but first he wants me to run away with him. Do you think I should?—Wanting To in South Carolina.

(A.) No! And I don't think you should even SEE him anymore. If you want to have a good and happy life, please heed my advice.

DISBELIEF? (Q) Up until last year I lied a lot. But I saw it was costing me so I stopped. But now when I tell the truth my parents won't believe me.

For instance, my father had a coin collection. Somebody stole all the coins. My dad thinks I did. I didn't touch them, but my parents keep hassling me. How can I make them understand and care about me again instead of hating me?—In Pain in Maine

(A.) It is unprofitable to lie, as you have learned. But what one has done in the past should not be charged up to him or her forever. Once a child has asked forgiveness and corrected a mistake, whatever it was, the parent should forgive and restore trust.

Have you told your parents you have changed? Have you asked them to forgive you for the lies you told in the past? (Write to Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received Jean Adams cannot send personal answers.)

MASSIVE FOREST FIRE — A team of fire fighters from the Acoma, N. M., Indian Pueblo battles a massive forest fire in the Lincoln National Forest at Cloudford, N. Mexico. More than 500 men manned fire lines while aircraft bombed the flames with fire retardant. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Russian Historian on Soviet-U. S. Talks

Hopeful of Arms Success

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet military historian has told the Soviet public that "there are hopes for success" in negotiations now underway on the agreement with the United States to limit strategic arms. "There are hopes for success because the talks are taking place in a more favorable political atmosphere than in the past," he said. "The first stage when tendencies toward detente were only gaining momentum," Col. V. Larionov said in the Communist party newspaper Pravda on Sunday. The comment came as President Nixon discussed the subject with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev in Paris, where both attended a memorial service for the late French President Georges Pompidou. Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko left Sunday for New York and possible talks about limiting offensive nuclear weapons with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

French Battle Underway For Pompidou's Successor

PARIS (UPI) — The battle to succeed the late President Georges Pompidou began in earnest today with the Socialist Party meeting to choose its nominee to oppose Jacques Chaban-Delmas, the main Gaullist candidate in the May 5 election. The Communist and leftwing radical Socialist parties, who concluded a voting alliance with the Socialist party in 1972, have already called on Mitterrand to be the common candidate for the Left. Warnings that the Left may come to power "for the first time since the 1936 Popular Front alliance, have failed to end the power struggle in the ranks of the Gaullists, whose leaders have been quarreling since the death of President Georges Pompidou last Tuesday. The Central Committee of the Union For the Defense of the Republic (UDR), the main Gaullist faction, Sunday endorsed the self-proclaimed candidature of Chaban-Delmas, 59. But National Assembly President Edgar Faure and former Gaullist minister Christian Fouchet have refused to withdraw their own candidacies in spite of Premier Pierre Messmer's pleas for unity among the Gaullists. The Gaullists have run France since 1958. Gaullist sources said they expected Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing, 48, to announce he is running, too. thus further weakening Gaullist chances for the election. A runoff will be held May 19 if, as debate on the world raw materials situation, but was expected to see Kissinger, too.

Lengthy Filibuster Facing Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A patient by special interest groups in national campaigns, already introduced must still be debated and voted upon. The first cloture motion by proponents of public financing failed by four votes last Thursday. The Senate was scheduled today to take up an amendment by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., to make federal election day a national holiday. He said it was aimed at reducing heavy absenteeism in U.S. elections. Besides Humphrey's amendment, the Senate also will consider one by Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., making it illegal to knowingly publish false or defamatory statements about a candidate for federal office. The bill for public financing of federal elections would earmark from the Treasury a campaign fund for each candidate of a major party equivalent to 15 cents per eligible voter in general elections. Opponents of the concept maintain it would amount to "a raid on the Treasury."

Mitchell, Stans Defense Underway

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former cabinet members John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans began the first full week of their defense today in U.S. District Court against charges of trying to impede a government investigation. Their counsel opened rebuttal last Friday by questioning President Nixon's youngest brother, Edward Nixon. He was followed on the stand by Richard M. Nixon's first partner in the Washington legal firm of Hogan and Hartson, who continues his testimony today. Before the weekend recess, Markman testified that in the four years he represented financier Robert L. Vesco's International Controls Corp., he never had a conversation of any kind with Mitchell, attorney general during most of investigation in 1972 in return for a secret $200,000 cash contribution from Vesco to the Nixon re-election campaign. Mitchell was Nixon's campaign manager and Stans the campaign's chief fund-raiser. Edward Nixon testified he went to Stans at Vesco's request to find out whether the gift should be in cash or check and Stans told him it was immaterial to the campaign committee. The prosecution sought to establish that Stans insisted on cash so the gift would be kept secret. Character witnesses for both defendants are expected in court later this week, the eighth week of proceedings.

No Comment on Negligence in Nixon Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander would make no comment Sunday on whether his agency had found any basis for negligence charges in connection with President Nixon's income tax returns for his first four years in office. Alexander, appearing on national television, (CBS "Face the Nation"), was asked that since no civil fraud and presumably no criminal fraud were found, was negligence that aggregate. We don't propose to do so." The IRS sent Nixon a bill for $432,787 in back taxes and the President announced he would pay every penny of it. On another television network, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said the Congressional Joint Committee on Internal Revenue which he cochaired with Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., had never intended to go into the possibility of fraud or negligence in connection with the President's tax returns. Mills said he did not believe the IRS had charged the President the 15 per cent negligence penalty. Alexander said apparently his predecessors had accepted presidential tax returns at face value, but under his stewardship, "in that respect we are breaking new ground." Alexander also said his agency in the past had furnished the White House with reports on some "sensitive" tax cases, but he had stopped the practice.

Democrat Would Cut Up Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A state legislator wants Texas cut into five states. It can be done without the approval of Congress — or anyone else. Rep. Dan Kubiak, a Democrat from Rockdale, said today such a move would quickly increase the state's political clout in Washington and solve some of its problems at home. When Texas joined the Union in 1845, it retained the right to divide into four additional states on its own initiative. Kubiak and Sen. Bob Gammon, D-Houston, think the idea may now be worth considering 130 years after it was originally brought up. "The best reason I know of to do it is to get more political clout in Washington, D.C., for the State of Texas," Kubiak said, noting that the current geographical area of Texas could be represented in Congress by 10 senators rather than two. Kubiak said 70 per cent of the natural gas produced in the United States comes from Texas, "yet we don't have the clout to get laws passed to protect our gas. "It's not right for a little old bitty state like New Jersey to have the same clout as Texas does," he said. The late Sen. V. E. "Red" Berry, D-San Antonio, proposed cutting Texas into two states in 1969 so South Texas could legalize liquor by the drink and parimutuel betting. His proposal cleared a committee as a joke, but never came to a vote before the full Senate.
